Texas Southern University head women's basketball coach Cynthia Cooper-Dyke has announced the signing of her 1st Lady Tigers recruiting class.

Keiana Vines (Oxnard, California), Victoria Wells (Los Angeles, California), Tashara Jones (Douglasville, Georgia), Ashley Ferguson (Arlington, Texas) and Jazzmin Parker (Houston, Texas) signed a National Letter of Intent (NLI) during the early signing period to continue their education and basketball careers at Texas Southern University.

"With four talented seniors in our program and a couple of extra scholarships that were available, we are excited about the class that we've gotten," Cooper-Dyke said. "It needed to be a bigger class. It needed to be a class that could come in and contribute right away and we feel like we have five players who feel like they can come in and make a difference and are talented enough to come in and make a difference."

Vines, a 6-5 center from Trinity Valley CC, was the 2009 Pacific View League girls basketball Co-Player of the Year. At Pacific, she averaged 15.6 points, 8.0 rebounds and 4.1 blocks per game. She then transferred to Santa Clara High School, where she averaged 16.1 points, 10.8 rebounds, and 5.1 blocks per game.

Despite her imposing size she has a soft touch around the basket, good hands, and is a left-handed post. In 2011, Vines was named the CIF Southern Section Division 5AA Player of the Year. She also led her team to a CIF Championship that season. She was ranked #8 by ESPN Hoopgurlz. She originally signed with UC-Santa Barbara out of high school before enrolling at Trinity Valley CC.
